Industry Update

The market is normalising after a period of high prices driven by the COVID-era supply chain issues and quarantine delays. This has required a diligent approach from the local team to maximise vendor returns.

Sold asset volume across Manheim Industrial is in a good place, but asset prices and clearance rates are down over 2023, making it a tougher sector overall than it was at this time last year.

Supply of new equipment across asset classes has returned in earnest, which suppresses the value of newer used pieces of equipment. At the same time the values of older assets have cooled as small businesses and lenders alike make careful and considered decisions amid lingering macroeconomic concerns.

Manheim continues to see strong gross sales across the Civil and Transport sectors, including record June numbers, however lower market prices offset this volume in revenue terms.

Agricultural sector demand is contingent on weather, with the health of this year's harvest to shape that market across H2. The latest forecasts indicate a robust yield for 2024/25, which would see an uptick in demand and less asset turnover.

We are seeing some strong form from the strategically vital Mining sector, as Manheim deepens its focus on remarketing these assets into independent contractors. On this note, Manheim is increasing its presence in Western Australia, recruiting people into the business and running WA-specific auctions for Australia's largest region.

Further highlights for Q2 across Manheim Industrial included the launch of a new Fleet and Finance Transport auction, driven by the increase in financially distressed transport assets. While the repossession rate does not sit at a high point, it's increasing and something to monitor closely.

We are also focusing more on the Hire & Rental space, tapping into a large nascent buyer base with monthly ex-hire auctions selling equipment owned by corporate and independent industrial rental organisations.

Looking ahead, Manheim will monitor market conditions closely, continue to grow its footprint in new regions and sectors, and roll out new specific auctions to meet the demands of the market. Bring it on.
